

Once there was a very normal guy named Smenen that lived a very normal life style. He lived with his parents even though he was old enough to get his own place and drink. He was more of a laid back guy. Till one day his mom got tired of his attitude and that he wasn't providing money to the house. It wasn't only with his mom that he had problems with, but with people from the streets that he owed money to because he used a lot of drugs. He smoked weed on a daily bases. Due too the poor community he lived in. One day he experiences a drive by, by a much known guy to the police department. Luckily he didn't get hurt but like any mother would do, she sent him with his cousin Poncho in the East Bay in the City of Hayward.
